

FAA Safety Team presents:

Survival: GAJSC Monthly Topic

This seminar will promote education and outreach to include the following: The GAJSC feels that improved survival planning before flight can significantly improve pilots' chances of surviving accidents and incidents and they recommend survival training such as the free Basic Survival Course taught by FAAs Civil Aeromedical Institute in Oklahoma City, OK. Survival is a huge topic so we'll just address a few technologies and techniques in the hope that you'll be motivated to learn more about a fascinating subject.

The GAJSC is working to improve General Aviation safety through data driven risk reduction efforts that focus on training, education, and outreach.

Directions: This event will be held in the main terminal building. For detailed driving directions, please use internet software such as GoogleMaps, MapQuest, Rand McNally or similar.
